Upon termination, can I convert this coverage to direct bill?

Yes. Upon termination, you will be given the option to cancel your HelloWallet account or sign-up for public account direct billing for which you'll receive an extra 30 days of free usage. You will then be charged the market rate and billed monthly by HelloWallet starting on the 31st day and each month thereafter.

How HelloWallet Works

The HelloWallet website serves as a cost effective, easy to use online planning tool that delivers highly personalized financial guidance and puts you in control of your saving and spending. Powerful analytics combine with simple, friendly interface to demystify financial management and engage you in making wise, day-to-day decisions about your money. The website is intended to provide you with general educational information based on personal financial information you choose to input and your own personal circumstance and expectations for the future. HelloWallet offers unbiased support because they are independent from all financial institutions, credit unions and 401(k) providers.

When calling HelloWallet, what information will I need to provide?

You will need to provide your email and zip code associated with your HelloWallet account.

Do I have to follow the recommendation of HelloWallet?

No, you remain in full control of your financial decisions. The information you receive from HelloWallet is not intended to provide any personal advise, including investment, tax, legal, and/or financial planning advice. You are responsible for making decisions that are best suited for your personal needs, preferences and financial situation.

Do I have to use this tool?

No. Participation is completely voluntary.

If I have an authorized unpaid leave of absence or become disabled, can I still participate in HelloWallet?

During a period of authorized leave of absence or disability, you will remain eligible for the benefit.

What happens to my data upon termination?

You will have 30 days to elect to continue service on a direct bill basis. Once you access your online account via www.hellowallet.com/mmc, you will be given instructions on how to continue the benefit.

Can I change my log-in email address?

Yes. Once your account has been created with your Marsh & McLennan Companies work email address, you will be able to change your address at any time by clicking on the Profile tab in HelloWallet.

Can anyone in my family open a HelloWallet account as well?

No, only eligible Marsh & McLennan Companies employees will be able to create a HelloWallet account. However, you may easily include your family's finances in your existing account. HelloWallet has been designed to easily track your family's finances in addition to your own.

Services Provided

With HelloWallet, you can:
